

Women & Girls Sport Fund (WGSF) 2022-2023 Guidelines

BACKGROUND

The Women & Girls Sport Fund (WGSF) is an initiative of ISWO, under its Women & Girls program. The program is intended to increase opportunities for women and girls to participate in sport, recreation, and physical activity while empowering through increased confidence, capacity and knowledge. The fund is also focused on removing barriers, providing access to resources and decreasing at-risk behaviours, which can have long-term negative consequences, through education and support. The WGSF supports projects that utilize sport as a positive agent to impact social change, helping to achieve social development outcomes in Indigenous communities, specifically for female populations. Proposals that outline how culturally grounded sport, recreation and physical activity opportunities will support overall wellness, for women and girls, will be considered for funding.

The WGSF is intended to make community sport, physical activity, and Indigenous approaches to wellness more accessible to women and girls of all ages and abilities. ISWO encourages remote and rural communities where sport-related opportunities are fewer, and large urban Indigenous populations where low participation rates may exist, to apply.

The WGSF is supported through contributions from the Government of Canada, under STREAM 1 of the Sport for Social Development in Indigenous Communities (SSDIC) initiative, administered by Sport Canada.

OBJECTIVE

The WGSF aligns with the Truth and Reconciliation's Calls to Action, which identifies four social development needs of Indigenous communities: improved health, education, employability, and reduced at-risk behaviour.

The goal of the funding is to support Indigenous women and girls to access and utilize sport, recreation, physical activity and wellness programming to address these four outcomes, by developing opportunities that lead to:

- Regular and ongoing sport and recreation participation;

- Increasing leadership opportunities for women and girls in sport, through training and certification programs for activity leaders such as recreation professionals, teachers, coaches, instructors, officials and volunteers;
- Acquiring adequate equipment to enhance community programming for women and girls, or create programming specifically for that population, if none previously exists;
- Strengthening connections in a meaningful way through positive relationship-building and interactions;
- Encouraging reflection as a guide for continuous improvement, providing relevant activities and planning that enhance a holistic sense of wellness for participants;
- Offering/adapting sport opportunities and delivery to meet the needs of Indigenous women and girls; and
- Building overall capacity and empowering women and girls, through sport.

APPLICATION DEADLINE:

All applications must be submitted by November 30, 2022 , at 11:59 pm EST.

FUNDING

Eligible applicants are invited to apply for funding in the amount of $5,000 to support new, existing and/or expanded projects that address a community social development need by directly supporting new or continued sport, recreation, and physical activity participation opportunities for Indigenous women and girls, in their communities.

WHO CAN APPLY:

- First Nation, Métis or Inuit (FNMI) community associations located in Ontario;
- Established Indigenous women and girls or youth groups focused on women and girls in Ontario;
- Indigenous not-for-profit organizations located in Ontario;
- A First Nation, Inuit, or Métis governing body, an Indigenous provincial/territorial organization or authority in Ontario; or
- Not-for-profit organizations, clubs, and associations, located in Ontario, that directly influence organized sport delivery in Indigenous communities, in consultation and collaboration with those communities.

ISWO is responsible for determining the eligibility of each applicant, their project, and project-related expenses. Please note that the WGSF is intended to support Indigenous women and girls located in the province of Ontario; all activities and programs related to the funding request must take place in the province of Ontario.

ELIGIBILITY

Eligible Projects

What projects and activities are eligible?

WGSF funding is for wide-ranging community sport and recreation programming, specifically aimed at supporting the participation and/or retention of Indigenous women and girls in sport and recreation programming and pursuits through four social development outcomes. The four social development outcomes of this funding stream are to build capacity, enhance safety and wellbeing, increase confidence, education, employability, and reduce at-risk behaviours that reduce opportunities for women and girls to be healthy and safe.

For the purposes of this fund, “sport” is being defined broadly. Activities that could be viewed as recreational or cultural are permissible if they include a physical activity component, and are chosen and supported by the community. The WGSF is distinct from sport development as it is focused on the achievement of community social development needs, specifically in relation to enhancing wellness and opportunities for women and girls. Your project must also be designed in a way that includes measurable outcomes for the four community social development needs.

Applicants must demonstrate how their project will:

- Lead to new or continued sport participation opportunities for women and girls;
- Increase the number of women and girls involved in organized sport activities in their community;
- Increase the capacity of the community to deliver additional or enhanced sport, recreation, and physical activity programming, specifically for women and girls, as a direct result of this funding; and
- In addition, applicants must demonstrate how their project will encourage and enhance women and girls’ participation in sport through all stages of life.

Examples of eligible projects include but are not limited to:

- Programs catering to women and girls, needing specific equipment or coaches’ training to become established and to increase program participant numbers.
- An existing community project that wants to expand to incorporate a new women and girls division to support overall community wellness.
- Projects developing fundamental movement skills for women and girls, (i.e., Active Start, FUNdamentals, Learn to Train, and/or Active for Life stages of the Canadian Sport 4 Life Indigenous Long-term Participant Development Pathway 1.2) to support lifelong sport and recreation participation opportunities.
- Projects that improve safety standards and risk management policies and procedures to reduce at-risk behaviour, specifically for women and girls.

- Projects that include or certify new qualified instructors (i.e., National Coaching Certification Program, Making Headway in Sport Concussion Training, etc.) to support safe programming, for women and girls. Preference will be given to projects that include or aim to certify female instructors, coaches and officials.
- Projects that will increase the capacity of the community to deliver additional or enhanced sport, recreation, and physical activity programming for women and girls, as a direct result of this funding.
- Projects that respond to barriers and improve accessibility for Indigenous youth, women, girls, and Two Spirit, lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender, queer, questioning, intersex and/or asexual (2SLGBTQQIA+) people within communities, to support improved education and employability opportunities.
- Projects that support skill development, capacity building and leadership roles for women, girls, and 2SLGBTQQIA+ people.
- Projects that increase the confidence, wellbeing, and safety of women, girls, and 2SLGBTQQIA+ people
- Projects that support increased participation of women, girls, and 2SLGBTQQIA+ in sport and community programs.
- Projects that celebrate Indigenous ways of wellness, sport cultural teachings and traditions (i.e., traditional games, pow wow, etc.), with a focus on female roles, female ceremony, female leadership and female participants.

Eligible Expenses

What expenses are eligible?

Only project-related expenses are eligible; these may include:

- Sport, recreation and wellness programming for women and girls;
- Costs of securing spaces to host programming for women and girls;

APPLICATION EVALUATION CRITERIA

The WGSF supports projects that are designed to utilize sport and recreation to address community social development needs, specifically for Indigenous women and girls. It is important to provide a clear outline of how you plan to evaluate and measure the impact of your project, which could include a change in participants' attitudes or behaviours.

Evaluation will be based on project applications that best meet the following criteria:

- Align with the purpose of the grant and the four social development outcomes listed;
- Demonstrate an acceptable use of funds;
- Respond to a specific community need;
- Demonstrate organizational capacity to complete the proposed project;
- Include clear and achievable objectives, and measurable results; and
- Provide clear measures or indicators to determine the success of the project.

APPLICATION ASSESSMENT

Project applications must address the needs and culture of the community benefiting from the WGSF, and where possible be delivered by members of that community.

Applications will be assessed based on how well they address the following:

1. Eligibility:
 - a. Your organization meets the eligibility requirements set out above; and
 - b. Your project meets the project eligibility criteria set out above.
2. Project need and rationale:
 - a. The project clearly identifies the specific social development need of the community and how the project will address it.
3. Project workplan, timelines and feasibility:
 - a. The application must clearly demonstrate how it will identify and address the objectives of the WGSF.
 - b. The application provides a clear description of each project with details about age ranges, location, estimated participant numbers, frequency of the program and description of all activities to take place; and
 - c. Timelines are clear and feasible.
4. Measurable outcomes:
 - a. The outcomes of the project are clearly linked to the project objectives, (i.e., one or more of the social outcomes identified above); and
 - b. They are specific and measurable (they can be qualitative and/or quantitative).
5. Project budget:
 - a. Project costs are reasonable, and details support the project's description.

It is anticipated that more applications will be received than can be funded, and therefore only eligible applications will be reviewed; however, please note that meeting all the eligibility criteria does not guarantee funding. Applicants may be contacted to provide further information regarding their proposal before final funding selections are confirmed.

ISWO is unable to fund expenses incurred prior to receiving your application. If you incur expenses for your project before receiving written confirmation of your funding approval, you will be doing so at your own risk.

FUNDING CONDITIONS

Project Timelines

Selected projects MUST be completed by March 31, 2023. Any project funds not spent on eligible project expenses by March 31, 2023 must be returned to ISWO. An extension to spend funding past March 31, 2023 may be considered if submitted to ISWO in writing by March 31, 2023.

Reporting Requirements

- A final report due 15 days after the completion of the project or by April 15, 2023. This report will be completed either through an on-line reporting form (which will be provided to you) or can be completed via phone call with a designated ISWO staff member.

Ongoing Communications

- All WGSF grant recipients will be assigned a primary contact person from ISWO to provide support and guidance for their project.
- Any proposed changes to the project, such as budget or timelines, require approval from your ISWO contact.

Project Products

Recipients who receive funds through the WGSF are encouraged to use creative ways to record project activities and successes. A sample of images, videos, interviews, voice recordings and promotional materials (as applicable) for the funded project are required as part of the report submission. If possible, images and video should be of high-resolution quality, for use on the ISWO website and to include in reports intended for the Government of Canada.

Recipients who receive funds through the WGSF must consent to the release of photographs, interviews, voice recordings or digital video recordings, for either publication, exhibition, or reproduction to be used for ISWO's own news, webcasts, promotional purposes, telecasts, advertising, inclusion on our websites, social media, or any other purpose by ISWO and its affiliates and representatives.

To ensure that the impacts of the WGSF projects are shared widely, successful applicants may be asked to participate in interviews on their experience in receiving this funding; to provide letters from project participants detailing how the project impacted them; or agree to participate in follow-up communications at the discretion of the WGSF committee.

Acknowledgement

Support from ISWO and the Government of Canada must be appropriately acknowledged on all materials related to the funded project. Formats and guidelines for logo use and acknowledgement of funding will be provided to successful applicants. The use of the logo on all program promotional materials must be approved by ISWO.
